Llandyssul Slalom. 31st July 1960

For the information of the Committee and others likely to be concerned with the organisation of timing techniques times are given by the two independant systems - synchronised watches (W) and timing machine (Z).

This demonstrates that checking systems should be employed. A variation of 60 indicates a misreading of a watch by 1 minute, a fault sometimes detected by the checking watch at control but which at least once slipped past this check. On the other hand the timing machine sometimes fails to operate or is switched wrongly when there has been overtaking.

It should be noted that the telephone should not be relied upon entirely as checking of judges' original notes reveal some mishearing both of times and penalties.
